// ABOUT COPENHAGEN

Copenhagen is a vibrant, yet peaceful metropolitan capital that is easily reached by air and train. In the warm May weather, you'll be able to pleasantly stroll the medieval streets of the old city, where half-timbered houses hundreds of years old stand beside stunning new architecture and modern design. Copenhagen is a city full of contrasts and surprises waiting to be discovered.

The Danes believe strongly in protecting the environment, and low-traffic Copenhagen plays host to a wide network of bike lanes, as well as safe pedestrian streets. Copenhagen Harbour is clean enough to swim in - and the locals do! May is one of the loveliest months of the year in Denmark, with blossoming flowers and plentiful sunshine. Join the locals at outdoor cafés and enjoy the unique Nordic light.

Copenhagen is the gastronomic capital of the Nordic countries, with restaurants boasting a total of 15 Michelin stars in 2013. The city offers a wealth of quality dining opportunities.
